

Ratna Amin, FPPA '05 SF, left her position as a legislative aide at the Oakland City Council in December to travel and visit with family. She and her husband are expecting their first child in May 2009.

Lucas Botello, FPPA '08 SF, is currently working in Southern California on the Emanuel Pleitez for Congress campaign, the seat being vacated by Hilda Solis, now the Secretary of Labor in the Obama administration.

Khanh Bui, FPPA '02 SF, is a donor engagement officer at the Silicon Valley Community Foundation.

Adam Byrnes, FPPA '05 SF, was recently hired as a Government Relations consultant for Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Aaron Carruthers, FPPA '97 SF, was appointed by Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger in July 2008 as the special advisor for adult programs for the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation. Aaron resides with his family in Sacramento, CA.

Marco Chavarin, CLP '06, is program coordinator for "Bank on San Francisco," a program of the SF Treasurer's office serving citizens who live without access to mainstream financial institutions. Most recently Marco was with EARN.

Malia Cohen, FPPA '01 StL, is an analyst for the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco.

Jeanette Dong, FPPA '86 SF, is the director of resource development for Peralta Community College District. She was previously with Team Up for Youth.

Abigail Rozen Greber, FPPA '97 StL, is the director of foundation, corporate & governmental relations at the Buck Institute for Age Research in Marin County.

Jed Herman, FPPA '04 SF, is the director of donor engagement and agency advancement for Camp Tawonga, working from its San Francisco-based administrative offices.

Jim Hogeboom, FPPA '89 SF, began this past August as the Superintendent of the Linda Mar Unified School District, situated on California's Central Coast near San Luis Obispo.

Laura Lanzerotti, FPPA '98 SF, and husband Tom Ahn, welcomed their first child on January 26, 2009 with the birth of their daughter, Serena Francesca Lanzerotti Ahn.

Emily LoSavio, CLP '04, is the executive director of Opportunity Impact in San Francisco, a newly formed nonprofit that helps youth living in public housing to stay on track academically and teaches them skills they need to create new opportunities and a better future.

Avi Rosenblit, FPPA '04 SF, will be in San Francisco this summer for a clerkship position with the California Department of Justice Summer Honors Program. Avi is a law student at the University of Pennsylvania.

Michelle Zapata, FPPA '97 SF, formerly a policy analyst with the GAO in San Francisco, is currently working on her Master's in Counseling at St. Mary's College. She is also the student activities coordinator at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hill. She and husband Dan Utterback have a two-year old son, Joaquin, and expect their second child in May 2009.